The legend of "The lady with the wood bundle"

"The story takes place during a terrible siege at Montaigle castle.

Supplies are low and the Lord of the castle must surrender.

The sieging mob decides to hang him from the highest tower that very night. However, they agree that the Lady of the castle can leave the fort and take her most precious possession with her. As night falls, she leaves the castle with a huge wood bundle on her back. The soldiers mock her. Her most precious possession is nothing other than a humble bundle of wood !

Unperturbed, she moves beyond the enemy positions. Finally, breathless, she collapses. Some shepherds come to her aid, when suddenly a stifled cry comes from the wood bundle.

To their great surprise, the Lord of Montaigle castle emerges from the wood bundle, saved from a tragic end."

A stone's throw from Dinant, the ruins of Crèvecoeur maintain a close watch over the Meuse valley. They offer an extraordinary view over the medieval city of Bouvignes and the valley below.

CRÈVECOEUR RUINS

A heartbreaking event

During the 1554 siege, it came to light that three officers were fighting heroically alongside... their wives.

But these unfortunate men were killed right in front of their women. To escape the clutches of the savage soldiers, the three wives decide to climb to the top of the tower. Holding each other's hand, they leap into the void.

This broke the hearts of the people who witnessed the scene. This is how the castle keep at Bouvignes got its name, "Crèvecoeur", as it means heartbreak.

POILVACHE MIEVEAL RUINS

Poilvache (13th to 15th century) is part of Wallonia's exceptional cultural heritage and a nature reserve. It's one of the biggest medieval strongholds in the Meuse valley (2.5 hectares within the walls).

An extraordinary adventure between water and sky with Dinant Evasion

READ JULIA'S STORY

What better way to start the day than a morning kayaking on the tranquil waters of the River Lesse.

I meet Damien and we catch a train from Anseremme station in Dinant for a short trip to the kayak departure point.

On the way, Damien tells me about Dinant and the surrounding countryside that we can see from the train. I feel like Hermione Granger (without the witch's hat) as we travel over viaducts, through fairyland landscapes and past Walzin castle.

This train is full of explorers and adventurers who, like us, have come to tackle the waters of the Lesse. We alight at Gendron, where we're to begin our short descent (12 kilometres).

At this time of day, light filters timidly through the branches above our heads as nature awakens and springs back into action, offering the most beautiful of sights to my rowing companion and me.....

© Xavier Ethuin-Dinant Evasion

Curiosities all along the way

Our attention turns from fauna to geology as we pass below the Aiguilles de Chaleux a rock massif that's been classified as an Outstanding Heritage feature of Wallonia.

We wave to a few climbers on our way past. After negotiating a few stretches of rapids, we're hypnotised by the beauty and dimensions of the 11th-century Walzin Castle.

Now a classified site, this castle could have come out of a Disney film with its towers clinging to the rock face.

© Dinant Evasion

In the heart of the old quarry of Le Penant, Dinant Aventure is an exceptional park in a vertiginous setting that makes it truly unique. More than 50 metres above the ground, rope bridges, zipwires, via ferrata trails, cable cars and various other activities can be enjoyed separately or as a package, for a day full of thrills in the heart of nature!

I try a few ropewalk trails with some friends who have come specially from Paris to spend the weekend here. This activity is full of thrills and every new bridge has us hesitating to take the first step. The key to success on these elevated trails is a good sense of balance, as well as the desire to overcome your fears.

After crossing all the rope bridges and reaching the end of the treetop adventure, I decide to test the park's star attraction, the pendular swing.

I'm trembling even as I write these words. From a height of 60 metres, with ropes attached to either side of my harness, I'm to jump into the void and experience a full second of fear and doubt, before the rope stops my fall and swings me like a giant pendulum, just so I can enjoy the unique sensation.

CANADA ? PROVENCE ? NO, THE ARDENNES !

"I'm filled with enthusiasm by my first trip to Furfooz Park, a wonderful little cocoon in the middle of nowhere, South East of Dinant in the Walloon region. As I enter this timeless nature reserve, a classified Natura 2000 site, I look around, eager to explore this mystical landscape. We instantly find ourselves in another world, especially when we enter the wood cabin reception where we're greeted by the keeper of what feels like a Canadian park. Armed with an itinerary map, we take to the footpath on this October day, our feet crunching the leaves fallen from the trees that reign here. Just above the reception, we utter our first "wow!" at a dizzying view of the entire valley where a few kayakers are braving the tranquil waters of the River Lesse. The plunging rock face just below us is home to the specific wildlife that's typically found on limestone grassland but quite surprising for the Ardennes! The path reveals one marvel after another, no less than fifteen remarkable features that fill this 4-km family walk with surprises around every corner. This is an educational nature walk, and details of all its remarkable features are given in booklets handed out at reception. The first sight, just a few metres into the walk, is a fascinating reconstitution of the old thermal baths and the remains of a Roman fortress, one of the region's main archaeological features. ..."

Packrafting

What's hiding behind that grizzly beard ?

A DINANT RESIDENT WHO'S A LITTLE BIT DIFFERENT.
HIS LITTLE TREAT ? PACKRAFTING.

My name's Thomas, I'm 35 years old and I still have all my teeth... hidden behind my huge beard ! 😊. I'm a child of nature. I've always loved outdoor activities and hiking is one of my favourite pastimes. Going out on my packraft is what I love best. After a day at work, the river Lesse in its natural setting helps me to escape and change my mindset.

But what is packrafting, you might ask ? It's a light, compact and stable craft. In other words, it's an adventure in a backpack !

Once you've tried packrafting, you'll soon want to do it again. The sheer pleasure of hiking to the start point, the satisfaction of taking your own craft, inflating it and floating it down the river – it's simply invigorating.

Imagine doing it two days running, or perhaps even longer. Well, along the Lesse river, there are strategically placed camping spots you can easily use as a base camp for exploring the river by packraft.

Here's an overview of what to expect :

First step : Pack all your things so that you're ready for the return trip. Secondly, set off on foot (by bike or rail), or by packraft, coming back the other way. Next, spend a wonderful evening in the great outdoors by the river, with a campfire and all the joys of camping. Finally, do it all again the next day, taking a different route so you can mix things up.

Do you prefer biking to walking ? Try bikerafting ! Here's the lowdown: Ride as a couple, on your own or with friends on the wonderful cycle paths on the Lesse river, then inflate your packraft and attach your bike to the bow as you make your way back down the river. A truly unique experience !

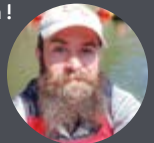

Please get in touch.

Just send me a message and I'll plan your mini-adventure in the stroke of a paddle ! 😊.

See you down the river very soon !

Yours beardily, Thomas.

The « Couque de Dinant », a local tradition

A little slice of history.

Legend has it that the Couque de Dinant was invented when the city was under siege in 1466. The inhabitants of Dinant were shut in behind the fortifications with no access to food except for honey and flour. They decided to use this to make a dough and cook it in a mould used at the time for copper work "Dinanderie". This meant that the couques took different forms and motifs, which is part of their charm today.

So, how do you eat the famous Couque de Dinant ?

Well, don't bite straight into it ! These lovely biscuits are extremely hard. You need to take small pieces and let them melt slowly in the mouth. They keep really well and can even be used as decorative items !

The "points-noeuds" network has arrived in the Explore Meuse area.

Have you heard of the 'points-noeuds' node cycle network ?

It's a real boon for keen cyclists as it provides thousands of kilometres to explore without needing a map. It couldn't be easier !

'Points-noeuds' are essentially interconnected routes, with numbered nodes that are linked together via small country lanes.

You can use the directional signposts to create your own route based on how far you want to go and whether you'd prefer a circuit or a straight line.

Interactive maps are available, as well as route planners.

It's as easy as 1, 2, 3 !

Take a note of the 'points-noeuds' numbers you want to follow

Take to the saddle

Follow the numbers and directional signposts

You can also pick up a map at an information centre or via our online shop.
